Smelter Settlement Is Being "Drowned Out" and Old River Bed Is Filling Up.

WATER IS HIGHEST OF THE SEASON

The river rose six inches during Friday morning and is still rising. Many of the Mexican adobe houses in the vicinity of the smelter are now partially under water and the water is standing several inches deep over the smelter car track at a point just north of the amelter pumphouse. The river at Courchesne, where it is measured by the United States sec-is measured by the United States section of the international boundary commission, measured 15.05 feet Thursday and Friday it measured 15.1. The rise during Friday moining was fivetenths of a foot, or six inches.

W. W. Follett, consulting engineer for the United States section of the boundary commission, says he believes the sudden rise in the river is due to rains somewhere above here in New Mexico, as the water is foamy and unlike the melted snow that has been coming down.

The river measurements in second feet made for the government by Will Follett, assistant in the international boundary commission, showed that the river is discharging 15,700 second feet of water at Courchesne. This is the highest point yet reached by the Rio Old River Hed Fills Up.

Embankments along the river between the El Paso foundry and Washington park broke during Thursday and allowed the floodwaters to run into the old river bed. These waters were curbed for a time by bunking up the old bed, but during the night the embankment broke and the water racked around in the old bed to the El Paso foundry.

The old river bed circled to the north and came in to the point where the El Paso foundry now stands. When the cut-off was dug, the river was carried straight from Stanton street east to a point opposite Washington park. It has remained in this course since that time, and this year has even cut still time, and this year has even cut still further west into Mexico, but the water is so high that it has spread to

"It is true that the water is backing in around the revenuent work in the vicinity of Washington park but it has done little damage."

MILLION-DOLLAR BANK FOR EL PASO NOW

Directors of the First National Bunk, at a meeting Friday, decided to recenumend to the stockholders the increase of the bank's capital from $400,000 to $500,000, and the recommendation will no doubt be neted upon favorably. This, with the bank's surplus, will give El Paso a million dollar bank,

The capital of the bank was increased two years ago from $500,000 to $500,000. At that time the deposits totaled three and a half million. In the two years, the deposits have increased to over five and a half million and the directors believe that this showing of confidence justifies them in increasing the capital to such a point as to give El Paso a million dollar

Franklin testified that when he called for the $4000 at Darrow's office the latter told him. "Job will be here in about 10 minutes."

"I reported to Mr. Darrow on the morning of November 28," said Franklin, 'that Mr. Lockwood would call at my office at about 4:30 that afternoon; that Lockwood and I had arrived at an understanding with regard to the security of the money to be paid him and that I was satisfied Lockwood would do what he had agreed to.

PROTEST IS FILED WITH THE COMMISSION

Chicago Scheme to Favor Mail Order Houses Is Fought by Reeves.

A. W. Reeves, truffic manager of the chamber of commerce, has returned from Kansas City, Mo., where he went to protest before the interstate commerce com mission. Mr. Reeves, with scores of representatives of other commercial organizations and firms in the southwest and west, fought the movement promoted by the Chicago Association of Commerce for a rate to ship cars of mixed articles at the same rate as cars of straight stock. This, it is held by the merchants and wholesalers, would allow the Chi-cago mail order houses to flood the west, ruining business firms and eliminating local competition.

"The Texas state commission went on record as opposed to it," said Mr. Reeves. But strangely, wish scores of complaints against it, the state commissions of Oklahoma, Kansas and Iowa stood for it, seeking, no doubt, to gain political power with the people. If the movement goes through, it will not make cheaper prices to the consumer, and will eliminate local competition and put all power in the hands of the big firms in Chicago and New York."

No action can be taken on the matter until after hearings in various other cities in the west, allowing all protests to be filed. Kansas City is the nearest point to El Paso where the commission will receive hearings.
